I still use the old version of PenyuUSB, v1.04, but they don't update it for PC machines any longer, what they have to offer is to send me a new version of v1.31, but I never received it and it was not given to a PC version of penyu. Also, I have a beta version of the new version (1.33), but I never received any email to update. this is the perfect program for securing your USB drives. The only unfortunate thing is, it doesn't seem to work properly on Win7 - whenever I use it to password protect a drive on Windows 7, once I reboot (or close and re-open the program), the ability to protect the drive is not there. As such, I run the program, and then open the drive that I would like to protect with my password, close the program, and then start it back up. So
